

PRESS RELEASE

25 November 2010

Greenergy named Company of the Year

Greenergy, one of the largest suppliers of road fuel in the UK, was named Company of the Year at the 2010 Growing Business Awards, hosted by the CBI and Real Business.

The prestigious award, developed to recognise entrepreneurial businesses, was awarded to Greenergy in recognition of its “all-round characteristics of business excellence – superb management and people practices; outstanding financial results; on-going innovation; and a sustainable business model”.

Andrew Owens, Executive Chairman said: “Being awarded company of the year is a great tribute to the hard work the team at Greenergy put in day after day to deliver efficiency and excellence across all areas of our business.”

The Growing Business Awards was attended by many of the UK’s leading entrepreneurs and addressed by the Enterprise Minister, Mark Prisk. This year’s event was held at the London Marriott Grosvenor Square. The 2010 awards judging panel was headed by James Caan of Dragons Den and included former winners of Company of the Year Simon Calver CEO, LOVEFilm and Will Young, CEO, King of Shaves.

ENDS

For more information:

Alex Lewis, Head of Communications, Greenergy, tel 020 7404 7700,
alex.lewis@greenergy.com